MONTESSORI AT HOME!
WHISPER TO YOUR CHILD

Do you raise your voice frequently with your child? Try this technique. Whisper to them.

The more they scream, lower your voice even more. Kids are used to adults raising their voices at them. If they scream and your shout, all you are doing is increasing the noise level in the room. If you use a quiet voice, a child will often stop their screaming so than can hear you.

The more you talk when a child misbehaves, the better they can negotiate their way out of a situation. So keep your conversation to a minimum when disciplining. Remember it's a battle of wills and the first person to talk will loose. Silence they say is Golden.

Dr. Maria Montessorri

Maria Montessori (1870 - 1952) was born in Italy in 1870, and subsequently became Italy's first female doctor in 1896.

At the age of 28 she became the director of a school with very difficult children. She spent long hours at the school developing her own approach to learning, and after two years, these children, who had formerly been considered ineducable, took a school examination along with normal children and passed successfully.

In 1907, she was presented the opportunity to apply her educational theories to normal children. She was given the responsibility of establishing a school for the 50 children living in an impoverished tenement building. The property's owner was tired of the children's vandalism and offered Dr. Montessori her first chance to set up her concept of what a child-centered environment should be.

From these early beginnings developed a method of education that has spread around the world. In 1929 Dr. Montessori founded AMI (Association Montessori Internationale) to establish and coordinate training centers to authentically prepare teachers. Dr. Montessori, who's legacy includes being nominated three times for the Nobel Peace Prize, died in Holland in 1952, and today more than

OUR MISSION

One of our key goals is to teach your child discipline, a sense of order and love the idea of learning.

Before your child learns anything we teach them concentration skills, social skills and good habits like putting away things.

Once this essential foundation has been established, we gradually introduce them to new concepts within a controlled environment. Each child is free to explore what interests them with careful guidance from the teacher.

The goal of Montessori is not fill your child with facts, but to encourage them to learn at their own pace. When your child learns to love the concept of learning, they will learn by themselves for years to come.
